

Hi, Parents! I'm Elise. I'm currently in school, where I'm studying psychology and play soccer, and I absolutely love working with kids. I've spent a lot of time babysitting over the years and am CPR and first aid certified. I'm looking for a family who needs help after-school and on weekends. I enjoy making up fun activities, keeping things organized, and building a positive relationship with the kids and families I work with. I can't wait to meet your little ones and help out however I can!